

“GOD’S LETTUCE PATCH”

When I was a child, preachers often gave their sermons interesting titles. The idea was that maybe you would want to come and listen to the sermon. I remember some of those titles... “How To Give a Pig a Permanent Wave.” (That sermon was about the prodigal son.) Another called “One More Night with the Frogs”, about pharaoh’s plague in Egypt. Another was called “God’s Lettuce Patch”. The outline was as follows:

I Hebrews 10:22

“Let us draw near with a true heart in full assurance of faith.”

II Hebrews 10:23

“Let us hold fast the confession of our hope without wavering.”

III Hebrews 10:24

“Let us consider how to stir up one another to love and good works.”

Those three rows in God’s “Lettuce Patch” should produce a good crop.
