

Unashamed CYC 2019

This year at CYC, we learned many things. The theme this year was Unashamed. We listened to four particular speakers. One speaker who really stood out to us was Chris Sutterfield. Unlike other speakers, he started out with an activity called Unashamed Fashion Show.

In this activity, we divided into groups and picked one model to wear the chosen accessories of the group. This was Chris' fun way to exemplify how we should be unashamed of who we are. As Christians, we are faced with choosing to be different and sometimes alone. Which can be really hard sometimes.

Chris also talked about how as Christians we are often afraid of being wrong or unable to defend ourselves. Sometimes we try and talk to other people about God, they misconceive what we are saying, and we get rejected. We all have to start somewhere. Chris talked about how Paul was very popular when we first heard about him but he was not set apart. You can read about that in Acts 9:1.

Cassie suggests that the accessories our models wore can represent how others can contribute to not only our personality but also our journey in our walk of faith. Just like Ananias came to help Paul. With the help of other Christians and studying The Word we can build our confidence, learn, and strive to be unashamed.
